PayPal Credit Card Policy

Ellora now accepts all major credit cards through PayPal. This gives you the convenience of paying for your food order when your credit card bill comes due (instead of at pickup), and collecting points if you have a points card. PayPal charges a small service fee per transaction, which we pass along only to those who use the service. We think this is a good deal for Ellora customers, as it allows us to accommodate those who wish to use their credit cards without having to raise Ellora prices overall.

If you wish to pay for your order by PayPal, you will need to let me know at least two days before pickup—or even better, when you place your order—so I can send you a PayPal email payment request for your billed amount. Then just follow the instructions in that email to finalize the transaction before pickup begins.

To use this system you'll need to have your own account with PayPal. If you don't already have one, please visit www.paypal.com and click on "sign up"—it takes just a few minutes to register.
